

Big Exposition Opens Next Week

Will Have More Exhibits Than Ever Before—Exhibitors Taking Space Rapidly—"Style Show" May Be Held Again—Entertainment Program Pleasing.

Plans for Kingston's big Exposition to be given next week on the Kingston Fair Grounds are nearly completed and indications point to the fact that it will prove one of the biggest successes ever held there.

The show space is going rapidly and a greater number of exhibitors have already taken space than have at any of the previous expositions.

Louis S. Coe, secretary of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, says in regard to this year's exposition:

"The Exposition idea is spreading with great rapidity all over the country. Kingston was one of the first cities in the eastern states to adopt this plan. It is a true Chamber of Commerce endeavor in that it tends to bring about a much better knowledge of the city and its industries, not alone on the part of the citizens of Kingston but also on the part of our friends and neighbors of the surrounding country. A better knowledge of the other fellow's business tends to bring about a better cooperation which is needed in every city."

More Exhibits Than Ever Before. "Each year Kingston's Exposition has brought an increasing number to view it and the committee believe that this year will prove no exception. A large number of merchants and industries have already reserved space and we are assured that many more will follow within the next few days, so that when the Exposition is opened to the public they will have the opportunity of seeing many more exhibits than last year."

Entertainment Program Elaborate. The entertainment committee are working hard to provide a program of a type that will appeal to all and promise that nobody will be disappointed by this part of the exposition. The committee are in hopes of having a Style Show again this year, and coming at this time of the year the merchants should have some splendid new merchandise to display.

Farm and Home Bureau Exhibit. One of the most attractive exhibits of the entire exposition will be shown by the members of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau. This will consist of farm products and there are no finer raised in the entire country; it will also show the progress made by the fruit growers in preparing their products for the market. An apple grader in operation will demonstrate how apples are now selected and graded for packing. Other exhibits will show the wonderful advantages of spraying and the results in better fruit wherever it is done.

The Home Bureau will demonstrate in splendid fashion the remarkable work they are carrying on throughout the county in the home life of their members.

"The Electric Home."

Another big feature of the exposition will be the exhibit of the "Electric Home." Nothing of this nature has ever been attempted before in Kingston, and it is safe to say that the interest centered at this exhibit will be far from small. To the housewife, it means a great deal. From this model she may get the best and most up-to-the-minute ideas of what a convenience electricity can be and how the home may be beautified and made still more comfortable.

Albert Pross Under Arrest

Sunday evening the automobiles of Albert Pross and Bernard Kaminski collided at Hasbrouck avenue and East Union street, and Kaminski placed Albert under arrest on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and turned him over to Officer Aley. This morning in police court before Judge Schrick the hearing was adjourned until next Monday morning at the request of Pross's attorney who was called out of town today on business. About a year ago Pross was convicted of operating a car while intoxicated and paid a fine in county court.

AGED NEW PAITZ MAN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Jerry Schoonmaker of Grove street, New Paltz, was knocked down by an automobile Thursday afternoon at the corner of Main and Chestnut streets, New Paltz. The car was driven by Thomas J. Burns of Jersey City. Mr. Schoonmaker was taken to the office of Dr. Baldwin and later removed to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie. It is feared that Mr. Schoonmaker, who is 83 years old, sustained a fracture of the skull.

Two Heiresses Marry Poor Men

Descendants of Massachusetts Colonial Governor Elope From Lenox Home—One Marries Chauffeur, Other's Husband Village Electrician, Formerly Keeper of Poultry Yard.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Lenox, Mass., Sept. 8.—Whoever said "the plans of mice and men are talking about" knew what he was talking about. Greenville Lindall Winthrop, retired millionaire banker, gave his daughters Kate and Emily, everything wealth and a high social station could provide and he naturally expected when they should take husbands their choices would be what might be expected of descendants of Governor Winthrop of Colonial fame.

Today the distracted banker had not the slightest notion of the whereabouts of his daughters and their husbands, his chauffeur and his co-keeper of the poultry yard. Further proof that when Daniel J. Cupid starts shooting there's no telling what is going to get hit, was that Morley Miles, 24 year old chauffeur's husband of Emily, who is four years her senior, was married before. He had started divorce proceedings against the first Mrs. Miles, a burlesque actress, when he learned of her death in a distant city.

Darwin L. Morse, who won the heart of Kate, 26 years old, lost his position as custodian of the Winthrop chickens some time ago, but despite this handicap, love found a way. He continued to visit his friend Miles and in that way was able to see the object of his affections. It is reported that after leaving the Winthrop household and becoming an electrician, Kate often met Morse as he left his place of employment and drove him home.

The two eloping couples were last seen at a local garage where they filled their machines with gasoline and oil. The large supply taken on led to the belief that the elopers intended going to Milton, Vermont, Miles's birthplace. The two machines are owned by the girls and they are each said to be possessed of a million dollars in their own right.

Pross's Ford Hit by Train

Albert Pross of Second avenue is playing in hard luck. This morning he was in police court to answer to a charge of driving his Ford car while intoxicated and colliding with another car, and this afternoon about 1 o'clock his car was struck by an Ulster & Delaware railroad train on the Strand, near Sycamore street, and quite badly damaged.

According to the police report of the accident Pross had parked his car near the railroad tracks on the Strand, and had called to Jack Rafferty, who was standing on the corner, to come over to the car as he wanted to speak to him. The train, known as the Day Boat Train, was backing from Kingston Point toward the U. & D. railroad station, and the side step of the rear car hooked into the forward wheel of the Ford, turning it completely around and badly damaging the side of the Ford near the railroad tracks. Pross was cut about the hands by the flying glass from his windshield. He was pulled out of the car by George Planthaber, Jr., of Lindsley avenue, who happened to be passing at the time.

From the marks on the pavement, Pross's car was parked about 2 1/2 feet from the railroad tracks, and all four wheels of the Ford were on the white pavement.

SIMON PLEADS GUILTY.

Louis Simon, a taxicab driver who was arrested by the police some time ago at the Rhinebeck ferry by Policeman Robert Healey for violating the city ordinance by soliciting passengers while standing more than five feet from his car, came in police court this morning and pleaded guilty before City Judge Harry E. Schrick, who imposed a fine of $3, which Simon paid.

Simon was one of several offenders who were arrested by Officer Healey. All had their cases adjourned at the time of their arraignment and others have pleaded guilty previously. Simon, however, waited until this time to plead. Edward Osterhout, a taxi driver, arrested recently on a similar charge, also pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $3.

Sneak Thief Sent to Jail

New York Youth, Financially Broke, Helps Himself to Pocketbook of Miss Elizabeth Coutant—Caught in the Act—Sent to Jail.

One of the boldest attempts at thefts was committed Sunday afternoon by Harry Klein, 17 years old, of New York city, when he helped himself to the vanity case and pocketbook of Miss Elizabeth Coutant of No. 330 Broadway, which lay on the seat of Howard Terwilliger's Ford coupe which was parked at the curb on Broadway.

As Klein reached in the car for the articles he was seen by Mr. Terwilliger who was just coming from the house with some other articles to place in the car. Mr. Terwilliger sprinted to the car and grasped Klein by the collar of his coat.

The affair attracted a crowd as there were a number of pedestrians on Broadway at that time. Some one called for an officer and the thief and his companion, Jack Rosen, 19 years old, also of New York, were turned over to Chief Wood and Officers Kuehn and Camp.

This morning before Judge Schrick in police court Klein told a tale of selling newspapers in New York city and that Saturday night after disposing of his papers and turning the proceeds over to his boss he felt hungry and entered an all-night restaurant. While eating a sandwich a stranger entered and said to him: "Buddy, can you tell me the way to Kingston?"

Klein gave him the directions and then the stranger asked him if he would like to go with him for the ride.

"You can imagine, judge," said Klein "that after working hard all day the words 'do you want to go for a ride,' gave me a thrill, and it was not until I got to Kingston that I realized I did not have money to pay my carfare home. That was why I attempted to steal the pocketbook."

"You may receive a thrill by spending thirty days in the county jail," remarked Judge Schrick as he sentenced Klein.

Rosen, who was next arraigned, claimed that he was not with Klein but just happened along at the time of the robbery. "But I plead guilty," he said.

He was fined $10, and unable to pay it was sentenced to ten days in the county jail.

Maine Voting Split Ballots

Principal Interest in Election of Governor—Many Warm Contests Over Congressmen and County Officers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Augusta, Me., Sept. 8.—Maine went to the polls today after one of the most heated political campaigns in the history, and, as usual, the whole nation watched.

It has been said that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation," and if this holds true the coming presidential election is likely to provide plenty of interest.

Early reports indicated that the political soothsayers were correct in their predictions that there would be more split ballots cast than ever before and that an unusually heavy vote would be polled.

Although state leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties predicted victory for their tickets, significance was attached to the admission of Republican leaders that Senator Ralph O. Brewster in his race for governorship would probably run behind the rest of the Republican ticket.

The Ku Klux Klan reared its shrouded head throughout the campaign and William R. Pattangall, Democratic candidate for governor, has not hesitated to call attention to it. He has repeatedly claimed his opponent was being supported by the order and Brewster has been content to deny affiliation with the Klan.

Return of U. S. Senator Bert M. Fernald to Washington is generally conceded. There are several warm contests over the election of congressmen, sheriffs and other county officers.

COURTNEY STOPPED AND SAMPLED CIDER

Thomas Courtney of Westbury, L. I., on his way in an automobile to Sidney, stopped on North Front street Saturday night to inquire the way to Sidney. While securing directions he sampled three glasses of what he said was "cider." A little later he was picked up by Officer Keesman on a charge of public intoxication. Fortunately he was not in his car at the time. He was fined $5 by Judge Schrick.

"Not Guilty," Said Barringer. George Barringer was arrested Saturday night by Burdett Wolven of North Front street on a charge of using indecent language in front of his house. This morning the hearing was adjourned to Thursday after Barringer had entered a plea of not guilty.

Clam Chowder Sale. The fancy booth of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Clinton Avenue Church will hold a clam chowder sale at eleven o'clock on the 19th of September at Epworth hall, Clinton avenue.

Complete Plans For Defense Test Day Parade

At a meeting of the committee on program for Defense Test Day held at the armory Sunday afternoon, reviewing officers were appointed and reports of the several committees in charge of the observance of the day were read.

It was decided that the parade on Defense Test Day, which is Friday, September 12, start at 2 o'clock, three taps of the fire alarm being the signal to start. The line of march will be arranged at the ferry on Ferry street.

The reviewing stand will be placed at the city hall with the following appointed reviewing officers: Admiral F. J. Higginson, Mayor Morris Block, Colonel F. L. Meagher, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Captain Everett Fowler, a member of the G. A. R., and the Rev. Father Reilly of Rosendale, who is to give the principal address of the day.

The parade committee decided on arranging four divisions with a band for each division. Automobiles will be provided for the disabled men. Members of all fraternal organizations throughout the city were issued invitations to participate in the parade. Superintendent Michael was also requested to invite the high school boys to participate.

Dr. Sam Stern reported that the Kiwanis Club has arranged to provide automobiles for the members of the G. A. R.

Final arrangements will be completed at the next meeting at the armory, which is called for Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Eagle Hotel on European Plan

Falling off of Transient Trade, Price of Foodstuffs and High Wages Given as Reasons—Manager Barnes Resigns.

After the serving of breakfast, Wednesday morning, September 10, the Eagle Hotel, Main street, will be conducted on the European plan instead of on the American plan, as it has been for a great many years.

The dining room and kitchens will be closed, doing away with the employment of waitresses, a chef, assistant chef, vegetable cook and several other kitchen help that were necessary while the hotel was being conducted during the American plan. The falling off of tourist travel after the summer season, the high price of foodstuffs and the high wages for help makes the serving of meals a losing proposition during the autumn, winter and spring months, hence the change.

The opening of a number of first-class restaurants in town has also affected the hotel's serving meals as these restaurants are extensively patronized by automobilists touring through this section with their families. The Otis Hotel on North Front street, changed to the European plan about two years ago and the rooms are filled nightly. The Stuyvesant and The Kirkland still are being run under the American plan serving meals, the former serving dinner from 6 to 8 p. m. instead of at noon for some time past.

Commercial travelers prefer the American plan as they generally arrive late in the afternoon and stop overnight visiting their trade during the morning and early afternoon, and thus are able to have their meals served at the hotels of the American plan.

C. Everett Barnes, who for some time has been manager of the Eagle Hotel, has tendered his resignation to take effect on Wednesday.

Night School Registration

Registration for night school will take place at the high school building this evening, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, from 7 until 9 o'clock.

Bishop's Car Reported Stolen.

Charles E. Bishop of No. 101 Green street reported to the police department Sunday morning that his Ford coupe was stolen from in front of Barton's Inn at Rifton. Today the police learned that a car answering that description had been found abandoned in a field near New Paltz.

Italian Celebration.

The St. Mary's Benevolent Association held its ninth anniversary Sunday at its rooms on North street. In the morning a large parade was held and at St. Mary's Church a high Mass was celebrated. On Saturday evening fireworks and dancing were enjoyed.

Collision Damaged Both Cars.

Saturday afternoon a collision between the cars of Robert Fulton of Port Ewen and W. F. Wheeler of Red Hook at Broadway and West Union streets, was reported to the police. Both cars were damaged.

Mrs. Mann on Radio.

Mrs. Helen Stern Mann of this city, who is visiting her sister at Detroit, Mich., will broadcast vocal selections from Station W. W. J. at Detroit Friday evening under the auspices of the Detroit Free Press.

Flyers Nearing New York City

Left Boston at 12:02 p. m.—Due at Mitchell Field at 8 o'clock—Crowd Slow to Arrive—Make Good Time en Route.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mitchell Field, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The sunset gun guarding Mitchell Field was charged and ready for the presidential salute which will welcome the "round-the-world" flyers who are speeding on their way from Boston and expected to arrive here at about 3 o'clock this afternoon, according to Lieutenant Burdette S. Wright, advance agent of the trio of world flyers, who landed here from Boston at 1:15 p. m.

The Prince of Wales and party have been assigned to three boxes in the first row of the grandstand.

The banners, six feet long, were planted in front of the grand stand bearing the names of the three world airplanes, and their pilots and vicinities. The planes were to taxi up to these stands as soon as they alighted. The crowd was slow in arriving, less than a thousand sprinkling the field an hour before the aviators were due to arrive.

A welcoming party of five Remington-Burnell machines left Mitchell Field at 2:05 o'clock to meet the flyers in their three planes somewhere off the coast of Connecticut.

Major William N. Hensley, Jr., commander of the field, carried in one plane a radio outfit to broadcast the location of the flyers and the progress they were making.

The flyers left Boston at 12:03 p. m. and passed various cities as follows:

New London, 1:30 p. m.
New Haven, 2:09 p. m.
New Rochelle, 2:26 p. m.
Mamaroneck, 2:57 p. m.

Bullet-Ridden Couple Found

Married Fortnight Ago—Bride Was Belle of New York's Italian Quarter—Police Searching for Bride's Father.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Sept. 8.—Carmillo Geulca, a young Italian, and his 18-year-old bride of two weeks were found riddled with bullets in bed in their home at 133 Mott street today.

The police believe the double murder was committed on Saturday.

Search is being made for the girl's father, who is missing.

The bride, Margaret Gandolfo Geulca, was one of the belles of the Italian colony and her youthful husband was a boarder in her home. Her mother was dead.

After the marriage a fortnight ago, Giuseppe Gandolfo, the girl's father, went to live with the bride and groom. Family troubles developed and the father was ordered out.

Neighbors told of hearing a violent quarrel in the Geulca home Saturday night, but no shots were heard. Nor was Giuseppe seen to leave.

The tragedy was discovered when Thomas Gandolfo went to the Geulca home to invite the bride and groom to his own home for dinner in the evening. When no one answered his knock, he tried the door and found it unlocked. Finding the place apparently empty, Thomas started to investigate. Lying amidst the tumbled bed covering both bodies literally riddled with bullets. Blood had soaked through the thick mattress and dripped upon the floor.

Thomas notified the police.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP.

Sunday evening at about 10 o'clock the Ford truck owned and driven by Theodore Bell of West Shokan left the state road near West Shokan and turned over several times. Earl North, who accompanied Bell, was severely injured and is now in the Kemble Sanitarium in this city. Bell escaped serious injury. The sheriff's office was notified and is now investigating the accident.

Shows Prince How To Greet Flyers

British Ambassador Diplomatically Plans to Welcome Them So That Royal Heir May Appear As Private Citizen.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 8.—There were expectations on Long Island today that in this, the final week of his stay, H. R. H. the Prince of Wales might do all sorts of things not on his official program, now that Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, had shown him how.

Sir Esme, used to the ways of diplomacy, adroitly showed Wales that he might diplomatically overcome the obstacles to greeting the United States Army "round-the-world" flyers today at Mitchell Field. The Prince had protested he could not do this, because it would be doing something official during a visit that was purely a vacation where he planned to do nothing official. In effect, Sir Esme said:

"All right, you let me as British Ambassador do the welcoming and you may be there as a spectator."

So today Wales planned to be on hand when the air Magellans taxi to a stop in the air field not far from the Burden estate where the Prince is spending his holiday.

Wales had tentatively decided to play at polo again today. This afternoon he will be the dinner guest of the F. Ambrose Clarksons at their Old Westbury estate.

The Prince is eager for the beginning of the international polo matches Tuesday. They were the primary reason for his American visit. It was announced today that under no circumstances would he remain here beyond September 14 when he is scheduled to go to his High River ranch.

Even though the teams divide the first two games, making a third necessary to determine a victor, he will not remain, it was said.

The British heir spent a Sunday among friends that are near to his heart—animals. He was at the Meadowbrook Hunt Club before noon looking at the British and American hounds and also cross breeds of the two, and looking at the hunters among the horses stabled there.

After that he motored about the prettier parts of the island, then had luncheon at the Burden place. In the evening he dined at the Piping Rock club.

Armies Battle At Shanghai

Fighting Between China's Warring Forces Reaches Outskirts of City—Foreign Settlements Remain Orderly—Peking Government Recognizes Kiangsu Governor.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Shanghai, Sept. 8.—The bitter battle being waged by the provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsu reached this city today.

Shortly before noon fighting took place in the outskirts of the native city which surrounds the foreign settlement.

Forcing their way to the very edge of the city, the Kiangsu forces engaged the inner line of the Chekiang defenses.

The foreign settlement remained orderly. All necessary steps have been taken for its defense if such a step becomes necessary.

The control government in Peking has shown its hand in the Chekiang-Kiangsu war by issuing a mandate outlawing the military governor of Chekiang and making the military governor of Kiangsu the head of a military expedition against the Chekiang troops.

In issuing this mandate President Tsao Kua declared General Lu Yung-Kelung, governor of Chekiang, a traitor to the nation.

By so doing, Tsao saved his face, asserting that the leading militarists including General Wu Pei Fu and the Christian General Feng Fu-Hsiang, demanded the order.

Cuneo's Branches Broke Loose.

Friday, John J. Cuneo purchased a pair of saddle brooches which he placed in his barn near Lake Katrine on the Kingston-Saugerties road. Sunday night the barn door was left open and this morning the mustangs were gone. As one evidently became loose from his halter and the other had broken his halter it is thought they wandered away. They each are branded with a letter "P" and are roan in color.

Mayor Morris Block this afternoon

filed with City Clerk A. A. Styles the appointment of a new board of public works to succeed the present board which was legislated out of office when "Local Law No. 2" was adopted by the common council and approved by the mayor. The mayor also filed "Local Law No. 2" as approved by him and on which he recently held a public hearing at which no objection was raised to the enactment of the new law.

The New Board.

The men appointed members of the board are:

Edward E. Fessenden, president of the Fessenden Shirt Company, for a term of four years.

William F. Rafferty, of the ship-building firm of Woods, Feeney & Rafferty, of the Strand, for a term of three years.

The Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, for a term of two years.

Dr. George F. Chandler of East Chestnut street, for a term of one year.

Dr. Chandler is the only member of the old board reappointed.

The Old Board.

The members of the old board, whose terms expired today when the new board was appointed, were: County Treasurer William H. Van Etten, John Hiltabrant, Selig Oppenheimer and Dr. Chandler.

New Board to Meet Shortly.

It is expected that the new board of public works will meet shortly to organize and dispose of the business that has accumulated since the last meeting of the old board. It is also expected that the new board will elect new officers. It is said that W. Scott Van Keuren will be appointed superintendent of the board; Fred Baker, assistant superintendent; John F. Hallinan, city engineer; and John J. Linson, secretary of the board.

Murphy, Jr., was elected delegate to the national convention from the third district.

The Local Forty and Eighters were honored at state promenade at Alexander Bay. A. J. Murphy, Jr., was elected delegate at large to national promenade at St. Paul, while Herman I. DuBois was elected alternate at large to the national promenade.

PRINCE ATTENDED QUIET SUNDAY NIGHT PARTY.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The Prince of Wales arrived at home at 5 o'clock this morning from what was described by his associates as "one of the nicest parties he has been on." It began at midnight in the secluded little farm house of the J. Henry Alexander's at Glen Head, L. I. The house loses itself in shrubbery at the end of an obscure little road. There was a small orchestra playing muffled music for fifty persons who danced.

"INDIVIDUALITY OF DRESS"

Here's the Best Hairdress For the Girl in Her Teens

By MADAME LOUISE.

Nationally known authority on hairdress. Trustee of National Hairdressers' Assn.; executive board member of Chicago organization.

For the girl in her teens the borish bob is just right, providing she has piquant features which can stand this rather severe type of hair-dressing. The girl on the left has a close wave and a jagged haircut in back which give her a generally untidy appearance. The girl on the right has a straight, smooth shingle brushed perfectly straight at the back of the head and shaped around her face. The top hair is brushed a little over her forehead and then back, making a neat and becoming hair arrangement.

ACHIEVES LIFE AMBITION.

Insurance Head Spent Years Trying To Hook Big Fish.

Our esteemed former townsman and friend, Manager Charles H. Post of the Caledonian, who spends his summer vacations at Sundown Lodge near Eureka, and who is one of the enthusiastic members of the Beaver Dam Fishing Club, on Tuesday attained the highest point yet reached in his successful career and achieved the ambition of many years of hard and courageous endeavor, when he drew from the depth of the Beaver Dam that "old soaker" that he has angled for so long, says the Ellenville Journal.

He was a regular old grand-dad of a pickerel, all right, and measured 28 1/2 inches long, was 14 inches around and tipped the scales at 4 1/2 pounds. Mr. Post sent his trophy to New York to be mounted and later it will adorn the wall at Sundown Lodge, the most prized of all his possessions.

Mr. Post is particularly pleased, because for a year past he has had to listen to the taunts of his friend, J. J. C. Humbert, who last year took a 3 1/2 pound pickerel from the Beaver Dam. But no more, now these bait fish catchers and cradle-robbers will have to take a back seat and keep quiet when a real fisherman comes around, after this.

We understand that the rumor that Mr. Post permanently ruined his vocal organs with his shouts of victory, immediately following his triumphant achievement, or that he broke the bottom of the boat with his war-dance of victory, necessitating his being rescued and dragged ashore by "Larry," are entirely unfounded, except as it is true that he is a bit hoarse from trying to make his voice carry several miles to Eureka in a kindly meant effort to give Mr. Humbert first news of the big event and that the boat was a rather old one and couldn't stand much.

But, we know just how he feels about it, even if our average is a bit under the one he got Tuesday, and congratulate him on his fine catch.

SUPR. MITCHELL OF CITY HALL PREPARED FOR WINTER

Under the supervision of Superintendent Joseph M. Mitchell of the city hall, new coal bins have been built and the heating plant thoroughly overhauled in preparation for cold weather. About a ton of ashes was removed from behind the heating plant. The new coal bins will accommodate a carload of coal.

Walton School Starts Forest

Idea of Making Rural School Self-Supporting Becoming Popular—Woodland Tract Offers Many Advantages.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, Sept. 8.—School district No. 1 of the town of Walton, Delaware county, has voted an appropriation of $300.00 to purchase land and start a school forest.

The use of cheap land for growing forests that will at maturity pay the cost of maintaining schools in the rural districts and thereby reduce the taxes in those districts is becoming popular in many parts of the state.

Five years ago, New York state did not contain a single school forest and today there are more than a score ranging in size from a few acres to nearly 100 acres and larger ones are under consideration by town boards whose members are convinced that such forests are a profitable investment. Under Supt. Glen A. Sealey who has studied the subject and is a firm believer in the profits in planted forests the town of Walton, Lewis county, is planting a school forest of 90 acres, the school children planting 10,000 trees each year on Arbor Day.

White pine plantations have been found to yield 40,000 board feet of lumber per acre when 40 years old, or an average of 1,000 board feet of lumber per acre each year. A forest of from 60 to 80 acres in area would produce an annual yield of from 60,000 to 80,000 board feet of lumber, having a stumpage value of about $15.00 per thousand board feet or a total value of from $900 to $1,200. In a large majority of the rural school districts there is more than twice this area of idle land which could be used for forestry purposes. Such a forest can be established by planting a few acres of land to young forest trees each year until the entire tract is forested. All the work of planting in a proposition of this size could be done by the school children in connection with their Arbor Day exercises or a planting team of two men could supplement the work of the school children and plant six acres in a week, if quicker results were desired.

The State Conservation Commission is urging upon local school boards throughout the rural sections of the state the great need of putting into effect a program similar to that outlined above. A small tract of woodland operated in connection with a school would offer many advantages along educational lines other than teaching the principles of forestry.

THE OFFICE CAT

President Faunce, of Brown University, said that a hundred million people running around like myriads of insects on an ant hill does not either constitute a democracy or a kingdom of heaven. Quite true, but most people believe the world owes them a living, so they have to run around to collect it.

I Wonder.

Why it is that only bald-headed men sit in the club windows? Why a woman can never read a newspaper without putting it down inside out?

Why people in a railway train invariably smile when they see a baby? Why a man always strike a match toward him and a woman away from her?

We see a great deal of your husband these days, it is reported a neighbor recently wrote to a woman who is visiting away from home. The woman is said to have written back to her husband and told him for goodness sake to be more careful about pulling down the shades.

This would be a wonderful world if as many people in it had soft hearts as have soft heads.

A diplomat is a man who can use complimentary adjectives when cuss words are struggling for utterance.

Jones—It would make a much better picture, young man, if you put your hand on your father's shoulder. Dad—Huh! It would be more natural if he had his hand in my pocket.

We know of a man who complained that advertising had ruined his business. When a friend asked him to explain, he replied sadly, "I let my competitors do the advertising."

As an indication of the forward march of progress, it is several weeks since we have heard anybody saying, "Yes, we have no bananas."

A Bit Shady.

Have you any shades? inquired the customer. All sorts of shades, replied the dealer.

I need some for summer. Shades to create a grateful shade in summer, continued the dealer. Now how do you like this shade of shade?

This shade of shade will shade the room nicely. But I don't like the price. Show me shade, a shade lower.

A friend is one who lies to you to save your feelings even when you know he knows you know he is lying.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

MARY WASHINGTON.

Moulding as she did to a great extent, the character of the great hero, statesman and sage of the western world, instilling into his young heart the virtues that warmed her own, and fitting him to become the man of unbending integrity and heroic courage, and the father of a great and expanding republic, she may well claim the veneration, not only of the lovers of freedom, but of all who can appreciate moral beauty and thereby estimate the true wealth of woman's heart.

The maiden name of the mother of George Washington was Mary Ball, and she was born in the colony of Virginia towards the close of the year 1706. She became the second wife of Augustine Washington, a planter of the Old Dominion, on the sixth of March, 1730, in Westmoreland county, Va. There, two years after this union, George, their oldest child, was born. Soon afterwards the parents moved to Stafford county, on the Rappahannock river, opposite Fredericksburg. Mrs. Washington had five more children and lost the youngest in its infancy, suffering a greater blow soon after, in 1743, in the death of her husband, being thus left at thirty-seven with a family of five small children. Fortunately her husband left a valuable property for their maintenance. It was mostly in land and each son inherited a plantation, the one daughter being also suitably provided for.

Two years after the death of his father George Washington obtained a midshipman's warrant, and but for the opposition of his mother, would have entered the naval service, been removed from her wonderful influence, acted a different part in the theater of life, and possibly changed the subsequent aspect of American history.

When Gen. Lafayette went to pay his respects before his departure for France in the fall of 1784 he found Mrs. Washington working in her garden, whither he was conducted by one of her grandsons—she greeted his encomiums on his hero, his friend, and his country's preserver with the simple remark, "I am not surprised at what George has done for he was always a good boy." Mrs. Washington died at Fredericksburg of a lingering and painful disease, a cancer of the breast, on the twenty-fifth of August, 1789.

ANNIVERSARIES.

Thomas of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, and uncle of Richard II, was treacherously seized and murdered by order of that king, on September 8, 1397. Richard suspected Gloucester of being involved in conspiracies against his throne. A great riot broke out in Philadelphia, Pa., on this date in 1819. A mob which had gathered at Vauxhall Garden, to witness a balloon ascension, became impatient at some delay in the proceedings and destroyed the garden and buildings by fire. On September 8, 1825, Lafayette set sail for France after his tour through the United States, in which he was everywhere received with honor and rejoicing. Congress granted him $200,000 and 24,000 acres of land in Florida as a token of the esteem of the republic for his services in the Revolution.

THE ORLANDO FURIOSO.

The first edition of the "Orlando Furioso" of Lodovico Ariosto, one of the greatest classics of Italian literature, was published just 408 years ago, in 1516. Ariosto, "The Ferrarese Home," whose name is held in much veneration by Italians as that of Shakespeare in the English speaking countries and Voltaire in France, was born at Reggio, in Lombardy, 450 years ago today. In his masterpiece, the "Orlando Furioso" he sought to celebrate in a great poem the origin of the house of Este: The loves and exploits of Bradamante, of that house, form the basis of his epic, the subject of which is the war of the Sacra Santa against Charlemagne.

He also wrote a number of satires on the politics and rules of his time, and his "Negromante" and "Zanotti" almost entitle him to be called the father of Italian comedy.

MORAN NIGHT SCHOOL OPENS ON TUESDAY.

To many of the students of last year's sessions who have been waiting impatiently to resume their courses, as well as to those who are planning to enter for the first time—news of the opening on Tuesday of the night sessions of the Moran Business School, Burgevin building, corner Fair and Main streets, will be received with satisfaction.

There can be but one explanation of the increasing popularity of these sessions, conducted for the last decade by the Moran School. Those who are on intimate terms with the results achieved, attribute this popularity to the school's policy of personal student-service administered unflinchingly to those who partake of its advantages.

Sessions will be conducted as usual on Tuesday and Friday from 7 to 9:30 o'clock. Students like the two-night plan because it operates so admirably in conjunction with their other activities, social and recreational. The school management advocates a program of home study on Monday and Thursday evenings in preparation for sessions on Tuesday and Friday. This leaves Wednesday and Saturday evenings free. This plan appeals to the common sense of the students and finds favor with them.

Last year's students returning to complete courses will find everything in readiness for them. New students should arrive as early as possible on the opening night. While advance notice of their intention to enter would be helpful to the management of the Moran School, such notice is not absolutely necessary. Those who have not made prior arrangements may come on Tuesday evening prepared to begin courses.

RESERVE OFFICERS TO REPORT FOR DEFENSE TEST.

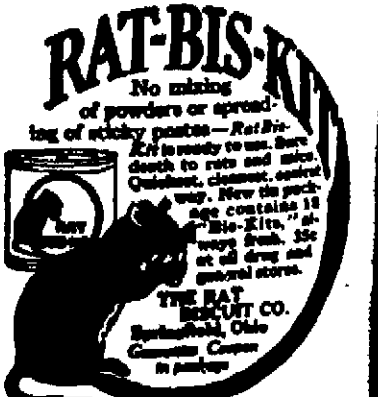

Bridadier General William Weigel, Deputy Commander, XII Army Corps, Organized Reserves, this morning issued the following announcement for the guidance of reserve officers, who have not been notified where to report to for the defense test on Friday:

"Reserve officers within the 2nd corps area are requested to report in person at the nearest National Guard armory or to room 811, Army Building, 39 Whitehall street, at any time between 12 noon and 6 p. m. September 12.

"If any officer finds it impossible to report in person at that time he is requested to send a post card to 'Deputy Commander, XII Army Corps, Attention G-3, 39 Whitehall street, New York city,' bearing a report as follows:

"I will be unable to report at any rendezvous point but count me present, as I am immediately available for active duty in case of an actual emergency."

Firpo Ranks
Slight FavoriteWills-Firpo Affair Posing Sharp
Shooters—Much to Be Said About Both Fighters.

(By Davis Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 8.—Having gained
the newspaper decision over his Majesty, the Law, in conniving to obtain appointment of deportation
proceedings until after the fight, Luis Firpo automatically became an 8 to 5 favorite today on Broadway
to defeat Harry Wills at Jersey City on Thursday night. That is, odds of 8 to 5 were offered but there were no takers in the immediate vicinity.
The sharpshooters appear to esteem
Wills' chances none too highly.
They think the business is in the bag.Firpo has the punch and the endurance of comparative youth. He also is reputed to be a tough citizen
in heavy going, although the writer
is somewhat disinclined to subscribe to this theory. Wills has the speed and ring brains plus a punch that is as good as the next as long as his hands hold out and he is permitted to hit and hold at one and the same time.On the question of Wills' ability to laugh off the punishment he must take hangs the ultimate issue. A ring veteran of thirteen years'
standing—to say nothing of several times sitting—he hasn't dallied with a real puncher in recent years and may discover that he cares not at all
for the crude, coarse work that only Firpo knows. The writer is inclined to think that Wills may fall in this respect.If he doesn't, however, the black man will win as surely as the dawn precedes sunset. Firpo isn't hard to beat in spite of the fact that Dempsey drew the decision just a bit fine.
On that occasion, however, the champion made the mistake of fighting a barroom fight, which was Firpo's meat and drink. It is hardly probable that Wills will make the same error.But he must expect to be hit some time during the early rounds and if he can't take it, the thing will be over early.From any angle one might care to view it, the fight is a laundry ticket.
One might dope it one way and hunch it another and still lose. As the non-partisan political writer
once remarked, there is much to be said on both sides.

Any Fabric Good
in Proper PlaceWhen Making Purchase Consider Service Which
Is Expected.Almost every fabric is a "fine one,"
if you find its special function, advises an authority. That means that you can consider no cloth as being of a specific worth, for its value is always relative, dependent on the use to which you intend to put it. Therefore, in buying a piece of goods, you must take into account its particular use.Consider tarian. Here is a fine, netlike material, admirably adapted to certain purposes for which a coarser material would not be appropriate. Yet tarian is not strong, and does not
launder well; so it would be, you see,
utterly unfit for articles whose
worth depends solely upon durability.
The wise shopper, then, does not overlook tarian when she is looking for a loosely constructed cloth for fancy dress costumes and some decorative purposes, but she is content to leave it alone in the province for which its manufacturer designed it, and so it spared the failure awaiting her if she tries to draft it into fields in which it was never intended to serve.Or take the warm, knitted, wool
sweater, so desirable for indoor use
and for general wear in damp climates.
Even its "warmth" is relative, for we know that it would be a wrap in name only for a cold, windy ride in the country.To expect a satin dress to wear well
on country tramps would be foolish. So in making every purchase the shopper must consider the purpose for which she wants it. One material may give excellent service in an afternoon
gown, but it would be a very poor
"buy" for traveling or street wear.It is not necessary always to insist on the "all-wool-and-a-yard-wide" quality of goods for winter clothing, which some women feel obliged to get. Some of the less expensive cotton and wool mixtures are in many cases just what you want for certain purposes. Cloth that has a cotton warp and a wool filling are excellent when, for instance,
that cloth is one like mohair or alpaca.
Silk, combined with wool, as in silk
and wool poplin, may make an excellent and inexpensive cloth. Union of cotton and silk in a fabric is often
stronger than a piece of weighted silk;
but if too much cotton is present the fabric will soil and crush more quickly than silk would alone.No one denies that in some cases
cotton is to be preferred to linen, being much like linen in appearance,
costing less and yet giving good service. On the other hand, cotton is never so satisfactory for towels, handkerchiefs, or dresser scarfs, for linen absorbs moisture quicker and dries more rapidly; a union of cotton and linen in towels will give better service than
all cotton.A soft-finished, loosely woven silk,
like charmeuse, or messaline, will not
crack or split as quickly as taffetas
and other hard-finished silks will. But loosely woven silks are not suitable for gowns of tight-fitting styles, since such silks are likely to slip at the seams.Medium-Brimmed Hat Is Turned Smack-Up at BackThose hats that have brims this season—that is, those that have medium brims—invariably have them turned smack-up at the back. The sketch shows one of these models,
with its back caught up by a ribbon
that first awakes the crown.

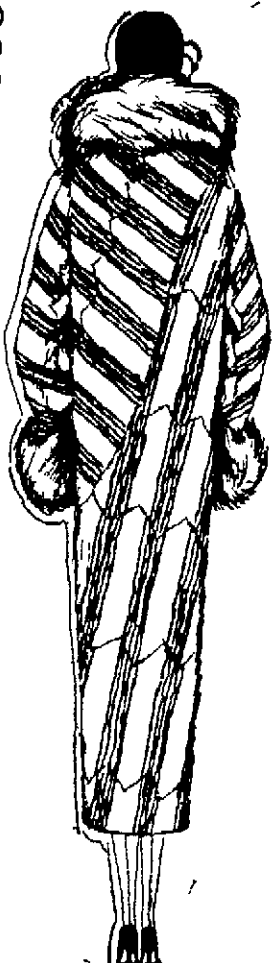

Frills Out of Place

Frilly lingerie much beribboned has no place in the modern woman's wardrobe, for well she knows that upon the proper cut and fit of her undergarments depends much of the chic of her frocks. Nothing must be worn that will in any way disturb the slim silhouette of the day. There must be no extra fullness, no ruffles, no bows of ribbon to make clumsy lumps under one's slim little one-piece frocks.

For Town, Country

A sedate sort of plaid is a feature of the new silk hosiery. This is worn with walking shoes, not only in the country
but also in town. The plaids, which are very small, confine themselves to dim blues, greens and violets, with here and there a brilliant stripe of scarlet, jade or gold.

Change Aspect of Hat

There are many ways of changing
the aspect of a sports hat, one of which consists of adding a band of wide black satin ribbon across the front on which large flowers are embrodered on gay wools. The ribbon
ties in a bow in the back.MYRKLE-HARDER COMPANY

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 8, 1924.

WARNING OF BREAKERS.

Statistics of ocean tonnage under the American flag furnish a warning of what is ahead for the United States unless plans are adopted for the encouragement of American shipping. At present the government is operating ships on a number of routes, and doing as good a job at it as a government agency can be expected to do. But there is a steady decline in the proportion of American foreign trade carried in American ships.

It is true that we have many more merchant ships under the American flag than we had in 1914, but that is the result of temporary conditions and does not signify much with regard to the much-desired permanent merchant marine fleet. In 1914 we had only 1,837,000 tons in ocean carrying trade; in 1924 we have 11,823,000 tons. But the increase was due wholly to the war emergency and the ships were secured at enormous cost.

The real test of our success as an ocean carrying nation is determined not by the tonnage of our ships but by the continued carrying of goods. During the war, and because of it, we developed our merchant marine until we were carrying about 50 per cent of our ocean going commerce. Now we are carrying only about one-third, and indications are that the decline will continue.

Great Britain carries about 60 per cent of her foreign commerce in British ships, and will probably increase the proportion. Many advantages are gained thereby. The owners of British ships are builders of British foreign trade. They employ British seamen and buy their supplies chiefly in British ports. They pay marine insurance to British concerns, bank through British bankers, and pay interest and dividends to British citizens.

No one can justly complain of the desire and effort of Great Britain to build and maintain a merchant fleet that will carry more than half of her commerce. But America ought to manifest a like ambition and carry it to fruition. We must have the merchant ships as a ready naval auxiliary in case of foreign aggression, but, what is equally important, we need the ships as builders of American trade and as revenue producers for the Nation. Never again should we be dependent upon other nations for ships to transport our soldiers and military supplies in time of war.

NOT DELIVERABLE.

Democratic leaders know from past sad experience of the futility of expecting that the labor vote will be delivered as labor leaders dictate. For years Mr. Gompers has been "delivering" the vote of his organization membership to Democratic candidates. But his confident prediction assurances have never materialized. Wage earners have continued to exercise their own discretion in the matter of voting. Which is the reason why Democratic editors are now discounting the Gompers attempt to award the labor vote to the third party candidates. "Organized labor," says the Charlotte, North Carolina, Observer, "is not willing to be led to the slaughter, and in North Carolina it is but very few of 'the goods' that Gompers will be able to deliver."

LITTLE AND BIG.

No chance for economy, however slight, is allowed to escape the attention of the Coolidge Administration. It has been ascertained that it costs the government annually about three per cent of the total face value of paper money to keep it in condition, but the maintenance of silver dollars costs practically nothing. Therefore, the Treasury has started a movement to encourage a wider circulation of silver dollars. As a practical step in that campaign, one of the coins was put in the pay envelope of each of the 5,000 Treasury employees. The savings from the partial substitution of metal for paper money will be added to the huge total of retrenchment, which has made possible two successive reductions in Federal taxation.

Isola A. Coolidge, candidate for the Republican nomination for senator from Massachusetts, is not only a "wet" but seems disposed to make prohibition an issue. He recently concluded a "stinging attack" on the Anti-Saloon League with the demand that the league "keep its dirty hands out of the Republican primary."

It is reported that the British will point to an expected eclipse of the moon as a rebuke to the uprising Sudanese. That will, at least be more humane than shooting them into pieces.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

A Los Angeles physician gives a history of three cases that should interest you.

A patient had a pimple on his lip. He picked it open with a needle, and squeezed it. He died thirty-six hours later.

The second patient did the same thing, and died on the sixth day.

The third patient also did exactly the same thing, and died on the tenth day.

Now what is the significant thing about all these three cases?

That they opened the pimple with a needle?

No, you've done that often yourself perhaps.

The significant thing, the dangerous thing, was that they "squeezed" it.

Now nature has been so wonderfully good to you, that the blood supply around your lips is most abundant.

The slightest cut, the slightest rubbing, and there is bleeding.

Where there are little vessels supplying blood, there must be also little vessels taking blood back to the heart and lungs to be purified again.

Thus with an ordinary little sore or pimple about the lip, if you can leave it alone, or prevent anything from irritating or rubbing against it, it dries up and disappears within a day or two.

Had the "clean" needle simply let the material out of the pimple, it would have healed up in even less time.

But after the needle was used, the squeezing of the tissues around it caused all the trouble.

Why?

Because the little blood vessels—the veins—which should carry wastes and poisons back to the heart, are squeezed so badly that their walls get broken, and they can't carry this material away properly. They actually get plugged up as it were, because the squeezing brings their walls together.

With the walls thus together and no drainage, the walls themselves become inflamed, and this inflammatory matter not draining off either, a regular clot of hard material is formed.

Some of this clot gets carried to various parts of the body, and sets up serious trouble.

You can see that it is not far from the brain, the face, and also is often carried to the lungs.

In these places it actually shuts off blood supply to important parts of the organ, with the results that bad abscesses or even death may result.

So in a pimple on the lip, face or other part, if you must remove contents, be satisfied with simply opening same.

Don't squeeze the part afterwards.

HART SCHAFFNER & MARX FALL COATS FOR WOMEN

are rich with fur and color

THESE coats are brisk with style, deeply furred and aglow with autumn colors. The imported woolens are beautifully patterned in spatter and chiseled designs, sunken and broken squares, blurred borders—an overwhelming variety of new ideas.

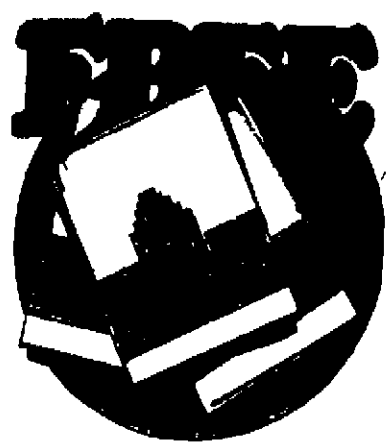

The styles are as smart and original as the fabrics—gracefully, wrappy coats for afternoon and evening, sports motoring—all carefully tailored and attractively priced.

Made Loud Noise Playing Cards

Sunday afternoon police headquarters received complaints from residents of Foxhall avenue that several young men were playing cards on a front porch of a house on that street and creating a disturbance by using loud language. Officer Camp was sent to the scene and arrested Messrs. Smith, Van Eiten, Brown and Brown. The hearing was adjourned to Wednesday.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS.

At the Opera House this evening, the Myrtle-Harder Company will present the comedy drama, "Why Men Leave Home." This play was originally produced at the Morosco Theater in New York city, where it ran for nearly a year. "Manhandled," the Paramount picture, featuring Gloria Swanson, will be screened at the Keeney Theater this evening. At the Auditorium tonight William Russell in "When Odds are Even," a story of a race across the world to obtain an option of a black opal mine. "The Guilty One," a Paramount picture, featuring Agnes Ayres comes to the Orpheum Theatre tonight and will continue to be shown until Wednesday. The story is a pictorialization of the legitimate success of the same name, a mystery-drama with more than the usual line of thrills, comedy touches, pathos, etc. Joseph Henabery directed the production. Edward Burns plays opposite Miss Ayres in the leading man's role. Cyril Ring, Crawford Kent, Clarence Burton and Stanley Taylor play in support. In conjunction with five big time vaudeville acts.

MOVEMENT TO POPULARIZE NATIVE FILMS IN CHINA

About Nine-Tenths of the Huge Population Never Have Seen a Moving Picture.

Shanghai.—Out of an estimated population of somewhere between 400,000,000 and 500,000,000, it is believed that 90 per cent of the people of China have never seen a motion picture.

For this reason an effort now under way to provide movies acted and produced by Chinese is interesting.

In China's largest centers and in the treaty ports the picture screen long has been commonplace and mixed audiences of Chinese and foreigners are thrilled over the film favorites, just as are audiences in the United States. But hitherto the sporadic efforts to popularize the movies in the interior of China have failed. Within the last year several companies in Shanghai have undertaken to produce Chinese pictures, and perhaps a half dozen of these have been exhibited with varying degrees of success. As they necessarily were made by unskilled actors and more or less inexperienced directors, they have appeared crude in the eyes of the Chinese used to the finished foreign productions. These films are being sent tentatively into the centers of the interior, where it is necessary to throw up temporary mat sheds in which to show them.

A Shanghai picture man explained: "It is altogether a problem of educating the Chinese people to the movies." He then went on to tell the experience of a showman who invaded the interior with a number of films. The people wouldn't go to see the pictures, and so the showman adopted the expedient of paying his audiences to come, doling out handfuls of cash to each person who entered the make shift theater. The showman's money gave out before his films, which were of foreign production, had gained popularity, and thus his efforts came to naught.

Later enterprises in Shanghai include one started by China's largest publishing concern, which is making efforts to improve the quality of the pictures, the acting, costuming and settings. Several of the country's leading actors of the speaking stage have been recruited for this work, which is being confined to plots based on stories purely Chinese.

How the efforts of these organizations will be received by China's inarticulate masses, and whether a Chinese Charlie Chaplin or a Mary Pickford in silken trousers will capture the country, are matters as difficult to conjecture as the answers to any other of the country's many questions.

Changes in Apples Grading Law

Changes in the law relative to the grading of apples and explanatory notes on the practical application of the law are contained in a circular which has just been issued at the direction of Commissioner Berns A. Pyke, of the department of farms and markets. Commissioner Pyke stated that he desired to call the attention of growers of apples to this circular, which will be forwarded to them on request to the department. One of the most important amendments enacted by the last legislature provides that the apple grading law shall apply to apples packed in bushel baskets with covers and other closed packages, the commissioner stated. Heretofore the grading law has been construed to apply only to barrels.

The amended law covering this point says: "Every closed package containing apples grown in the state of New York which is sold, offered or exposed for sale, or packed for sale, or transported for sale by any person, shall bear upon the outside of one end of the barrel or box and in the case of other packages conspicuously upon the outside thereof a plain letter and figures, the name and address of the packer or of person by whose authority the apples were packed and the package marked, the true name of the variety, the grade or class of the apple therein contained and the minimum size of the fruit in the package. If the true name of the variety shall not be known to the packer or person by whose authority the package is packed or branded, then such variety shall be designated as 'unknown.' When apples in closed packages are delivered to a common carrier for shipment, such delivery shall be presumptive evidence that the apples are offered or exposed for sale. Every closed package of apples upon which the grade and size are changed to a higher grade or a larger size than was marked by the original packer, shall have the name and address of the original packer blotted out and the name and address of the repacker or of the person by whose authority it is repacked in place of that of the original packer. It is further provided that apples packed and branded in accordance with the rule and regulations promulgated by the United States government in relation to grades shall be exempt from the provisions of the article.

Fifty demonstrations, some of which have already taken place, showing the proper packing of apples under the grading law, were arranged by the department of farms and markets in cooperation with the State College of Agriculture and the Farm Bureau Associations. Demonstrations have been given in Columbia Greene and Yates counties. Demonstrations are scheduled for Wyoming county, September 16; Seneca county, September 19 and 20; Monroe county, September 8, 9, 10 and 11; Orleans county, September 18, 19 and 20.

Lutherans to Meet in Chicago

Fourth Biennial Convention to Open at Chicago—Will Take Up Plans for Another World Convention. By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, Ill., Sept. 8.—To put into action the plans formulated last year at the first world convention of Lutherans at Eisenach, Germany, is one of the most interesting and important tasks to be undertaken at the fourth biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America to be held at Chicago from October 21-30.

Several prominent American Lutheran general bodies participated at the world convention where delegates from 40 nations recommended a closer cooperation of Lutherans throughout the world. The executive board of the United Lutheran Church in America has endorsed this plan of cooperative effort and the approval of the Chicago convention is now necessary to make the movement effective within the United Lutheran Church.

The world convention drew up a doctrinal statement accepting the Holy Scriptures as the only source of church teaching and practice and recognizing the Lutheran confession as the pure exposition of God's word. As a first tentative step toward world wide cooperation, the Lutheran world convention organized an executive committee of six members including two representatives of the American Church the Rev. Dr. J. A. Morehead of New York, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, and the Rev. Dr. L. W. Boe, president of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. The high esteem in which the American Lutherans are held by their foreign brethren is further evidenced by the fact that Dr. Morehead was made president of this executive committee.

The aim of this committee is the ambitious task of harmonizing all Lutheran activities in works of love, in care of emigrants and in foreign mission work. As indicating one of the objects attained, an American delegate to the World Convention asserts that "henceforth the Lutheran church of the world will be able to speak as a unit."

The committee is charged with the task of preparing for another Lutheran World Convention. It will present suggestions made to the convention by Dr. Morehead for an exchange of visitors between Lutheran church organizations—notably between those of Europe and America—exchange of news and of literature.

To the executive committee is entrusted the authority of voicing the attitude of the whole Lutheran church in matters of world wide import when for grave reasons it is necessary or desirable.

The Chicago convention of the U. L. C. A., will be asked to approve these first steps in Lutheran world wide movements and to elect four of the eight American members of the larger standing committee of the World Convention which will aid the Executive Committee. Those nominated for such election are Prof. J. A. Clutz of Gettysburg, Pa.; the Rev. E. C. J. Kraeling of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Hon. E. Clarence Miller of Philadelphia, Pa.; and Prof. Dr. A. G. Voigt of Columbia, S. C.

THE FLARING TUNIC ARRIVES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The prevalent popularity of the tunic and flare is responsible for this Margaine Lacroix model—one of the first to arrive from the recent French openings. It combines gray with rose de bois and has all manner of clever little features which may be used for all sorts of clever little fancies.While on the fascinating subject of the new imports, it seems that we are evidently going to have our necks trimmed, as the French say,
for many houses are showing various ways to eliminate the present neck
nudity. At Martiat et Armand, there are a number of high collars, some Directoire, of course, some of fur,
some scarfs; and to finish these high
necklines are double-headed ornamental pins which are one of a number of interesting accessories. Some of these pins are worn with earrings
to match, of red galalith encircled in gold, to lend a touch of color to the costume. Sometimes there are even bracelets of the same galalith. Big metal earrings, bell shaped, are a novelty.One evening dress has its deep U
decolletage at back veiled in a network of brilliants, which also form
a chain about the throat with a long pendant. Little fobs with various motifs written out, gold on black,
form another category of accessories.Other remembered details are that for evening wear. Chiffon, velvets, satins, metal brocades and rich velvet brocades are again emphasized
in pastel and high shades; while
black and the brown and rust shades
and dark green predominate for afternoon wear.Colors important for evening, in addition to those previously mentioned, include pink wistaria, lettuce green and periwinkle blue.
Leopard print on foulard instead of on velvet, as it has been seen, is used by Chanel for dresses and coat
linings.Rich handwoven fabrics of metal thread construction are noteworthy.
They are exemplified by one of gold and copper threads, woven to give a slightly ribbed effect.

Employment in August StableRe-opening of Up-State Plants Responsible for Offsetting Decrease
in Employment in New York City.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 8.—The recession
in factory employment appears to have about touched bottom. Several important reductions were reported
in New York state factories in August, but there were enough increases to offset the decreases during the same period, so that the total volume of employment went no lower from July to August. This is the first time that any significant increases have been reported since March. Industrial Commissioner
Bernard L. Shientag, of the state department of labor, issued this statement of employment conditions today.The important decreases in August came in the manufacture of building materials. Until now the building industry has been the chief factor in holding up factory employment. In August, brick yards, cement mills, cut stone yards, paint,
lumber and house trim reported serious reductions.The significant increases in August were in the manufacture of other wood products, such as furniture and pianos, and in the leather goods plants. Shoes, belt and bag factories increased production, except in the case of a few large factories where employment has kept
up well throughout the recession.
These gains represent only a part of the preceding losses, but the turn is significant.The large machinery and electrical equipment group held even and
most of the iron and steel mills,
which have felt successive declines,
did the same. Stoves and automobiles both went up a little.The season is still slow in developing for most of the apparel trades.
Women's clothing, millinery and furs are below last year's level. The shirt and collar factories continued
to cut forces.The textile mills are still in the midst of a serious reduction. The re-opening of some mills and increased production in others made possible the re-employment of more than half of the cotton mill workers who were let go in July but even in July working forces were not much more than one-half those of the year before. Over 1,000 silk workers were let go for at least a month in the silk mills alone and the knitting mill workers felt a further reduction of 8 per cent.Employment in New York city in contrast with the state as a whole fell off in August. This is partly due to the slow seasonal revival in the women's clothing industry and in the fur trade. There is also the fact that the past few months have seen more shut-downs up-state than
in New York city, and it is a reopening of these plants which is responsible to a large degree for the gain in employment.The most significant gains here as well as in the state as a whole were in the furniture and piano factories.
Leather goods and shoe factories are important in New York city.A few of the metal industries,
noticeably jewelry and silverware,
and to a small extent sheet metal
work, gained while machinery held its own. However, there was a drop in the brass and copper mills both
in refining and in the manufacture of valves and parts for the automobile industry. The ship yards, always irregular, let over 700 men go.The drug and chemical plants in New York city added workers this month. The break in building materials showed in the reduction in the paint factories. Structural and ornamental iron works were the only ones to show increased forces.Workers in the food plants felt
the effects of a seasonal reduction in the biscuit factories and curtailment in the sugar refineries which were generally slack on account of few orders for shipment. The candy
factories and cereal plants added
some workers but this did not balance the losses elsewhere.The decline in silks was especially noticeable in New York city.
Among the sewing trades, only women's clothing and millinery called for more workers and they are not even with last year.Gains in shoes and seasonal employment in the canneries were common factors in the improvement in Rochester and Syracuse. In Rochester there were also some scattered gains among the metals. Chemicals lost a little but they have been holding up rather well. Chemicals in Syracuse gained slightly after the sharp drops of June and July.
The metal industries fell off a little more with the exception of a few plants which took on workers after cuts in the previous month. Heating apparatus improved.Somehow improved conditions
in the cotton mills after the severe reductions of last month accounted for the increase in employment in the Utica district. The knitting mills kept about the same number of workers though there were both
gains and losses among the individual plants. The metal industries dropped a few more employees while leather gained.The Binghamton area showed a slight loss in employment with a small reduction in the shoe factories. Business conditions affected the instruments division, resulting in a small reduction here also. Chemical plants took on workers after a cut last month and tobacco products
showed a general increase.Decreases in a large number of the metal industries and further losses in the shirt and collar factories made the Capitol district show
a net loss in employment this month.
The industries which were conspicuous in the gain in other cities are not found here. Gains in the railroad repair shops and a partial recovery in the iron mills did not offset losses in the equipment factories and throughout the metals generally.The printing industry which has been a steady employer of labor released some men this month. Some of the paper goods plants also let employees go though there were increases also in this industry. Men'sclothing was slightly more active after a vacation shut down.In Buffalo there was an important change in the direction of the metal industries. Scattered increases,
though small, more than balanced
the decreases this month. Automobiles showed a gain which more than wiped out the loss last month. The brass and copper mills increased operations slightly. Steel showed a small gain while pig iron went lower. Heating apparatus, which has been holding up relatively well,
showed a small increase. The machinery group as a whole lost a little, partly because of the decline in railroad equipment. Food products
gave employment to fewer workers,
particularly the meat packing plants.

MAKES PLEA FOR THIEF WHO HAD MENACED LIFE

Banker Shattuck Asks Mercy for Man Who Had None for Him.

Paris.—At the end of a trail of vengeance that led half way around the world and cost two lives, hundreds of thousands of dollars, Albert R. Shattuck, American millionaire, found pity.

The story goes back to a day in 1922, when the soft-spoken banker in the Shattuck home on Washington square, New York, turned with a snarl upon his employers, and blew sharply on a whistle.

The gardener and one of the kitchen boys dropped their masks of servility and became snarling bandits, like their chief. Three other apaches, waiting outside, were admitted. Revolvers and ugly knives were whipped out.

No Hesitation to Kill.

The astonished banker, his wife and four loyal servants were driven down to the cellar at the pistol's point. There Mourey insulted Mrs. Shattuck vilely. Only the certainty that the apache would not hesitate to kill restrained the white-haired millionaire from violence. Into an alight wine vault the bandits forced their victims, with curses and degrading remarks.

The door was slammed shut upon them and locked.

Death was but a few hours away for all, as the air was bad and scarce.

Upstairs, the bandits swiftly ransacked the house, took jewelry valued at $70,000 and made away scattering them over the world.

Some were caught, but Mourey disappeared.

Inside the vault, Shattuck alone kept his head. With a dime's edge and a broken penknife, the banker attacked the hinges of the heavy steel door. Loosening the screws with the utmost difficulty, he pried the door open and tottered, with his wife in his arms, into the cellar, just as every one was on the point of collapse.

Driven Down to the Cellar at the Pistol's Point.

From that day, Shattuck swore vengeance upon Mourey. He did not talk of it much, but private detective agencies learned quietly that there was no limit to the reward if they could trap the apache.

Mourey was heard of first in this country, then in that, hunted day and night, but always eluding pursuit.

Shattuck kept on the trail. It led to the Indies, then to Europe, then to Africa. Still the bandit kept ahead of the international police put on his track. Justice became the banker's aim. Some called it vengeance. They Mourey was trapped. A woman was the leader in the deed—his sweetheart, with whom he kept in touch throughout the flight.

Trapped With Sweetheart.

Growing bolder, the bandit came to Paris, or rather to a little villa outside the city, where his sweetheart used to meet him.

One day the gendarmes of Paris followed her to the villa and a revolver battle ensued before Mourey threw up his hands. One was mortally wounded. First an attempt was made to have the apache king taken to New York, but it was decided the French charges against him were the more serious. The jury found Mourey guilty as charged, resisting an officer with violence, which resulted in the fatal wounding of the police. The judge sentenced him to die on the guillotine. The Shattucks, their long pursuit ended, wrote to Donmergue:

"Justice cannot ignore pity. This man has expressed regret for his crimes. We believe he is sincere."

Sought to End Life

Where Son Is Buried

North Bergen, N. J.—Charles Alexander attempted suicide on the grave of his son in Fairview cemetery, according to police, who found his body stretched on the grass-covered mound which indicates the spot of his son's interment.

The police state Alexander went to the cemetery and remained at the grave throughout the night. It is said poison was used by the brooding man in his suicidal attempt. Physicians at a local hospital declared he will recover.

Edgar was the son's name. Seven years ago, at the age of nine, the boy was killed in a railroad accident.

Famous as Lover

Francois Bassompierre, a French marshal in Richelieu's time, was France's great lover. Richelieu ordered his arrest, and just before he was seized he is said to have destroyed 8,000 love letters. He was cast into the Bastille.

My Dear George:—

The Myrtle-Harder Company is playing with me this week—I have played every Repertoire Company of high class standing traveling and I am very much surprised and delighted with this attraction. It is positively the best and most completely equipped Stock Company that I have ever played, every member of the company is an artist, young, and has a delightful personality. I am sure you will want to know how good they are and I can assure you that Kingston Theatregoers will appreciate your efforts in securing such a wonderful attraction for their entertainment next week. Their opening play "Why Men Leave Home" is still the topic of conversation around the city. Best wishes,

Sincerely,

Fall Asleep on Floor Near Father's Cell

Ossining, N. Y.—Tears of sympathy trickled down the cheeks of attendants in the death house at Sing Sing when the daughter and son, three and two years old, respectively, of Frank Minnick, a Buffalo prisoner, fell asleep on the floor of the corridor outside the door of the cell occupied by their father. Death-house guards obtained pillows and blankets for the children, while their mother and father, who had not seen each other since he was brought to Sing Sing two months ago, talked together for the last time.

MEN IN HARD FIGHT TO BEAT OFF SHARK

Sea Monster Attacks Fishermen in Small Boat.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Saved from death after a struggle of an hour with a huge saucer-eyed shark with double rows of spear-shaped teeth, which sought to devour them, Richard Gunther and Donald Cavanaugh are seeking the body of the giant killer which they hope to keep as a souvenir after it is washed ashore.

Gunther and Cavanaugh, who is fourteen years old, were fishing in an open boat a mile offshore from Newport beach when the shark attacked them, evidently attracted by the bait. The huge killer, 20 feet long, circled the boat several times, then raced toward it and attempted to seize the boy.

Commanding the youth to crouch in the bottom of the boat, Gunther grabbed a spear which he keeps in the boat and slashed the shark with it. This only seemed to infuriate it. It attacked again, drenching the water with its blood. Then it seized the gunwale in its jaws and tore a jagged hole in the craft.

Just as Gunther, exhausted, believed he could no longer ward off the shark, two men in a boat, nearby, attracted by the boy's cries for help, came to the rescue and renewed the attack. Apparently mortally wounded, the shark swam slowly away.

Fall Trying to Halt Grand Jury

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 8.—Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, who is under indictment here for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with oil lease transactions in California and Wyoming, took steps to halt another grand jury investigation of his official activities, while a member of the cabinet.

At the request of attorneys for Fall, Justice Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court issued an order requiring Allee Pomeroy and Owen J. Roberts, the government's special oil counsel, to show cause why the new probe should be continued.

Cotton Declines On Crop Report

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 8.—The condition of the cotton crop in the United States on September 1, indicated a total production of about 12,787,000 bales of 500 pounds gross, the Department of Agriculture announced today.

Last year, the production was 10,123,473 bales.

Cotton prices declined about 50 points or $2.50 a bale on the New York Cotton Exchange following the publication of the government's crop report shortly after noon. A larger decline from the 12,000,000 bale crop promised in the previous report was looked for. Selling for profit taking and southern liquidation furnished most of the offerings.

PORT EWEN

RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN SHORTCAKE SUPPER

The ladies of the fancy booth of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will hold a peach shortcake supper in the chapel of the church Wednesday evening from 5:30 to 7 o'clock. A warm and satisfactory meal will be topped by luscious peach shortcake garnished with whipped cream. The following menu will be served: Chicken in pate cases, scalloped potatoes, jelly, tomato and lettuce salad, Thousand Island dressing, brown bread, raisin bread, shortcake with whipped cream, tea and coffee.

COLORED SWATTERS WON

Over Colored Stars—Play Tonight at Athletic Field.

The Colored Swatters avenged their previous defeat Sunday by defeating the Colored Stars by a 14 to 9 score. Bassett of the Swatters again clouted for the circuit. Battery for the Swatters, Jackson and De-groot; for the Stars Glavan and Hamble.

The Swatters play the East Kingston Colored Giants this evening at 6:15 o'clock at the Athletic Field.

Holy Cross Annual Fair.
A large number of women of Holy Cross parish met Thursday evening in the parish house to arrange for the annual fair. It was decided to open the fair on Tuesday, November 11, and continue three days. Entertainments will be arranged for each evening by a committee headed by Miss Ethel Williams, a tea will be held on the afternoon of the second day and a supper the evening of the third. The booths were assigned to various societies, and special features discussed.

Rosemore Hotel Opened.
The Rosemore Hotel on Canal street was thrown open to the public Saturday evening when the grand opening occurred. Fully 500 were present and an evening of enjoyment was experienced by all. During the evening refreshments were served, excellent music being furnished for dancing.

Shoots Husband, Kills Herself

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ticonderoga, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Believed to have been temporarily insane, Mrs. Frank Garfield, 35, of this place today shot and badly wounded her husband and then turned the gun on herself. She died instantly. Doctors believe Garfield has an even chance to live.

The shooting took place in a bedroom, according to Garfield. He told the police he was about to arise when his wife fired point blank at him and then turned the weapon on herself.

Friends of the family said Mrs. Garfield had suffered from mental trouble for more than a year.

Society Notes

Parkers Entertain.

Their other guests were Mrs. Charles Mer-cer Hall, Judge and Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coykendall, Mrs. H. H. Surges, Mr. and Mrs. Hermon A. Kelley, Howard Chipp and Burton Hendricks.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Mrs. John J. Wolf, a former resident of this city, died early Sunday morning at her home at Connelly following a short illness. Besides her husband she leaves two sons, Cornelius and Albert Wolf; one daughter, Jennie Wolf; her father, Charles Derosies; two sisters, Mrs. John Winkler of Jersey City, N. J., and Mrs. Albert Wolf of Connelly, New York city. Funeral from her late home at Connelly Wednesday morning at 8:45 o'clock and at 9:30 o'clock from St. Peter's Church with a requiem Mass for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

The funeral of William L. Lowery was held from his late home at Creek Locks Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, where a requiem Mass was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Father O'Reilly, the pastor of the church. The services were largely attended by his many relatives and friends and the floral tributes were many and beautiful. At the conclusion of the Mass the choir sang, "Nearer My God to Thee." The bearers were members of the family. The Rev. Father O'Reilly accompanied the remains to the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery, Rosendale, where the committal services and interment took place.

Robert H. Weeks of this city, died Saturday at the Masonic Home in Utica, where he has been since 1922. He was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., and is survived by his wife, one daughter, Miss Margaret L. Weeks of Briarcliff, and one son, Richard D. Weeks of this city, a sister, Mrs. Hannah Winchell of Stone Ridge, and a half brother, Charles Rudnik of this city. Deceased was well known in this city and for years had a shoe store on Wall street. He was the first manager of the shoe store of S. B. Thing & Company of this city. The remains will be brought to Kingston and Masonic funeral services will be held at the funeral chapel of A. Carr & Son, No. 1 Pearl street, Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment in Montrose cemetery.

The Rev. Elwood R. Ackerly, a retired Methodist minister, died suddenly of acute indigestion at his home, No. 390 Albany avenue, on Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Ackerly retired from the active ministry in 1917 after which he lived for a number of years in Cohoes. About two years ago he took up his residence in this city and acted as an agent for Masonic insurance. While in the active ministry he served at Haines Falls and Tannersville, Hensonsville, Equinunk, Vail's Gate, Pine Bush and Sam's Point, Bullville, Modena, Edenville and Montgomery. For two years he was superintendent of the DePeyster Home at Tivoli. He was a graduate of Claverack and Wesleyan colleges and also attended Drew Theological Seminary for two years. He was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., and the Shriners. He is survived by his wife. The funeral will take place from his late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

THE BUTTERCUPS

LITTLE MISS BUTTERCUP looked at her cousin, the Daisy, with envious eyes. She envied her the dainty white frill she wore around her bright face. "And then she is so tall and graceful," sighed Miss Buttercup. "I am so short, I never shall be graceful. Oh, dear, will no one help me to get a white frill?"

"How silly you are," buzzed a bee who was passing. "You are a brighter gold color than your cousin, Daisy. You might not look well wearing a white frill."

"Oh, but I should, I know," pouted Miss Buttercup. "I might be prettier."

Saw a Field of Golden Cups.

even than Cousin Daisy if I had a frill like hers. Oh, dear, will no one help me to get a white frill to go with my bright yellow color?"

"Don't be silly," piped a robin. "If you don't stop fussing you soon will be crying and will spoil your bright looks. There are plenty of white frills in the field now. If you wore one you would spoil the picture of gold you and your sisters make. Be happy and remain as you are."

But no, Miss Buttercup did not wish to wear all yellow. She fussed and fretted until she had all of her sister buttercups discontented as well and pretty soon they all began to cry, saying between their sobs, "Will no one help us to get a pretty white frill like hers."

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Fact about your name! Its history; meaning; whether it was desired; its influence; your lucky day, lucky jewel

IRMA

IRMA is one of the many feminine names derived from Teutonic mythology. Its evolution is somewhat involved, and it cannot be definitely determined when or how its final form, which comes to us as Irma, was reached. It is evidently the Anglicization of a Teutonic form. Curiously enough, it signifies "public peace."

Tracing Irma back to its mythological origin, it is revealed that the third son of Mannus was said to be Er, a deity worshipped as Irman or Ermin. The evolution of this word through German nomenclature is irrelevant here, but the curious fact remains that its feminine form appears in the Teutonic language as Hermine, not Irmine or Irma, as one might suppose.

In Italy, however, the name Erminia arose and named a saintly virgin of the sixteenth century. Spain had already received Irmin, and had proceeded to give it various interpretations, until a certain Hermenberga is discovered among the royal princesses. This lady was offered in marriage to a Frank king, but the honor was declined.

Ermines was the name of the lady who carried the blue blood of the Balten to the line of Alfonso. Her name meant public dignity. Southern, in his famous poem, calls her Ermines.

The Anglo-Saxon version was Ermen and Irmenegard or Ermenegard. The latter form is frequent in German today.

The beryl is Irma's talismanic stone. It is said to make its wearer amiable and unquerable, and to awaken love in married people. Friday is Irma's lucky day and 2 her lucky number.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 8.—Weakness appeared in stock prices in the first session of the new week, due in large measure to the selling of impaired marginal accounts. A fair recovery followed as buying orders filtered into the market from various sources, but mostly from professional traders who were either covering shorts or buying for a prospective turn of the speculative tide. After more than two hours of inactivity the tide started a moderate forward movement, with most of the active oils participating and with Standard, Gooden, Marland and Phillips in leading positions.

The market was dull and hesitant in the early trading, due in large measure to the preponderance of political interest in the speculative district with the immediate attention focused on the Maine election. Industrial and business reports over the week-end were almost uniformly favorable, particularly in the steel and silk industries. Copper metal was nominally lower, but producers are holding back for higher prices and copper stocks were in the forefront of the advance in prices in the fourth hour. Utah securities, a holding company for copper properties, went through to a new high above 35. Cerro de Pasco and Andacota recovered part of last week's losses.

Further losses in Chandler Motor emphasized the uncertainty with respect to the dividend on the common stock. Coco Cola was under attack on reports that a prominent New York bank had severed financial relations with the company, the error arising from the fact that the voting trust agreement with the company expires this week and hereafter the regular certificates of the company will be traded in instead of the voting trust certificates.

Railroad and steel stocks were inactive. United States Steel was fractionally lower in the early trading, and was not an impressive factor in the rally, though it advanced slightly above its previous close. Sugar stocks were again in good form as raw and refined sugar markets firmed up.

Cotton was the chief point of interest in the outside markets. Prices declined 50 points on publication of the government's crop report and 27 points additional on belated selling in southern points.

Colonials Again Beat Glens Falls

Harris Pitches Good Ball and is Given Perfect Support—Schwab Led Schrickmen With Three Hits.
Finding Grody for twelve hits, the Colonials of this city pounded out a 5-2 win over the Glens Falls baseball club at Glens Falls on Saturday afternoon. Harris was on the mound for the Colonials and allowed the up-state club just five safe blows.

All of the Colonials with the exception of Bob Coyle found Grody for at least one safe blow. Schwab led the batters with three hits out of four times at bat. The Colonials not only gave Harris the necessary number of runs to win the contest but they also gave him perfect support in the field, not one error being chalked up against the local players. The Colonials started the scoring in the first inning when they sent two runs across the rubber. In the fifth, sixth and seventh stanzas the Colonials shoved over their other three runs. Glens Falls scored one run in the third and another in the sixth.

Doyle had four new men in his line up on Saturday. Stuart was in left field, Bouck in right, Haber at short, and Fleming behind the bat. None of the new players managed to come through with hits but all played a creditable game in the field. The score:

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Giants increased their slender lead by a full game by taking an 8 to 7 slugfest from the Dodgers as a record crowd surged on the field and played tag with the outfielders. Terry batted in four runs for the champions.

Louque and Carl Mays landed two knockout punches on the Pirates as the Reds won a double header, 4 to 1 and 4 to 3. Pittsburgh is now two and one half games behind the Giants.

The Senators failed to hit in the pinches and dropped a game to the Red Sox, 6 to 2.
The Athletics staged a ninth inning rally while Bob Shawkey was dreaming about his world's series money and the Yanks lost, 2 to 1, missing a chance to cut down Washington's lead.

Hornsby's failure to hit enabled the Cubs to trim the Cardinals, 2 to 1, but St. Louis got an even break by running away with the second game, 15 to 4.
The Tigers made it six straight by nosing out Cleveland in the eighth, 8 to 7, and advanced to within two and one half games of the Yanks. Cobb used six pitchers to keep the Indians on the reservation.

D. & H. Generals Downed Colonials

Sunday's Game at Fair Grounds Gave To Phelps' Team 3 to 2—Both Pitchers Hit Hard.

The Colonials mixed some very brilliant baseball with some very mediocre baseball Sunday with the result that the D. & H. Generals profited by the locals' misplays and won out by a 3-2 score. One inning the Schrickmen looked worse than any High School nine ever did and the very next session they perked up and played as though they were contenders in one of the present league races.

The first run that the Generals scored was sent across the rubber without the aid of a single clean hit. A base on balls, a sacrifice and an error furnished this tally and the other pair that enabled the Generals to score their victory were almost equally unearned. On the other hand, the only two runs that the Colonials pushed across were the result of rebounding whacks greeting Joe Monell in the opening inning.

Though he was hit more freely than Monell, Hummer usually had the slugging railroaders well in control. Every time that he was in trouble it was his support that was lacking. At other times, after getting their twirler in a bad hole, Generals teammates furnished some very brilliant and clever ball in order to keep the Generals away from the plate. Three double plays, two of them very unusual, nipped budding rallies before any scoring had resulted.

Hummer walked the first man to face him and Sandy laid down a bunt that Coyle fielded and threw to Deegan at first. Marter knocked a high bouncer to Fitzpatrick and was thrown out at first. On this play Phelps went to third, drawing a throw from Coyle. Bobby pegged wide of the bag and the ball rolled into Bill Schwab's left field.

Colonials Take Lead.
The Schrickmen got that run back and added one in their half of the second inning. Fitzpatrick clouted the second ball pitched over the right field wall and trotted around the base paths.

After Flynn had lined out to Sandy, Deegan and Raskin doubled and put the Colonials in the lead. Morgan and Schwab tried hard to send Matty around but their best efforts were grounders to the infield.

Generals Tie Score.
Kelly Herbst, needing no introduction to local baseball followers, started the rally that tied the score in the second. Kelly's contribution was a single to left field. Schermerhorn bunted and Robins' throw to Coyle found its way to a soft spot in Schermerhorn's anatomy, the big first sacker being safe and Herbst going all the way to third. Colket scored Kelly with a single past first. Grady fanned. Monell hit back at Hummer and Phelps died on a hard grounder to Flynn.

The Colonials didn't threaten after the first until one man was out in the fourth. Coyle doubled and attempted to score on Hummer's single. Eddie, Jr., fielded the hit cleverly and his perfect throw to the plate had Bobby out by inches. After that but two Colonials reached second and none passed there.
Tubby Raskin helped set the stage for a fast double play in the fourth. Schermerhorn hit a line drive down the alley between right and center fields and Tubby held him to first on the hit. Colket hit to Fitzpatrick who tossed to Deegan forcing Schermerhorn and Matty threw out the batter.

The Winning Run.
Marterer lifted a pop fly in back of short stop and Schwab, Flynn and Raskin did an Alphonse and Gaston act under the descending pellet. The ball fell between the three of them and Marterer was credited with a single. Again Phelps played the army game and Hickey laid down a bunt. Hummer threw him out. Herbst came through with a base blow over second base and the run scored.

The Generals had men on first and third with but one out in the lucky seventh but again it was clever fielding by Tubby Raskin and Tubby's good arm that saved the day. With Monell on third and Phelps on first as a result of an infield hit and an error, Sandy got the ball out of the infield past Flynn. Raskin fielded the ball on the first bounce and whiffed the ball to Robins who had Monell out by feet. Phelps tried to make third on the play but Robins cut him down for the second out of a very unusual double.

The ninth inning saw the snuffing out of another rally that surely saved the Colonials from a worse defeat. Schermerhorn and Colket opened the last inning with singles. Colket was credited with his single when Hummer, Deegan and Coyle all came in on his bunt and when Matty picked up the pellet, no one was at first to take the throw.
Schermerhorn took too big a lead and Robins did the usual thing, picked him off the bag. While Flynn and Fitz were running him down, Colket tried to slip down to second. Fitz tagged Schermerhorn just in time and flipped the ball to Matty to nip Colket coming into second.

After Deegan had singled in the eighth, Eddie Phelps, Jr., robbed Tubby Raskin of a double and saved the game from the Colonials with a sparkling catch of Tub's line drive between left and center. Eddie had to cover some ground to reach the ball and made a fine stab of the pill while going at top speed. That play helped a great deal for the next play was a boot by Colket. He had a double play in front of him and dropped the ball, Deegan and Morgan both being safe. Harris, hitting for Schwab, since the misplay in left field in the sixth session, lifted an easy one to Herbst and Coyle forced Morgan at second.

Two Games Here With Glens Falls
On Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the Colonials will be seen in action at the Fair Grounds, opposed by the Glens Falls team. The Colonials have a big margin in the series played this year with the Larry Doyle outfit, the latter being but able to annex two games.

On next Sunday at the Fair Grounds a double-header will be staged with the Hall Community Club of Bridgeport, Conn.

Tagging the Semi-Pro Bases

At the Fair Grounds Sunday the D. and H. Generals won from the Colonials by a 3 to 2 tally.

The Poughkeepsie Red Sox won a double-header Sunday from the Washington Colored Stars. The scores were 8 to 0 and 9 to 3. Brogan and Wagner were the winning pitchers.

At Clifton, N. J., Sunday, the Doherty Silk Sox lost to the Royal Giants, score 4 to 1. James was the losing pitcher and Redding the winner.

At Dexter Park Sunday the Bushwicks won a double-header from the Hagerstown team.

At West New York Sunday, the Cuban Stars won both games of a double-header from the West New York team.

Legend of Unicorn
Medieval conception of the unicorn as possessing great strength and fierceness may have been partly due to the fact that in certain passages of the Old Testament, the word R'em (translated in the authorized version, unicorn) refers to a two-horned animal, savage and quarrelsome, subdued to gentleness only at the side of a virgin. The idea of purity is included in the significance of the unicorn used in many coats of arms.

Americans Rule Polo Favorites

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 8.—The International polo teams of American and Great Britain will indulge in a complete rest today as final preparation for the opening match of the International series tomorrow at Meadowbrook with the Prince of Wales among the distinguished spectators. The match was postponed from Saturday owing to the heavy condition of the turf and it is figured that the interval benefited both teams. It gave the Americans a chance to play on a dry, hard field on which they can better utilize their superior speed and it allowed Captain Lacey, the British star, a further opportunity to recover from the effects of a strained shoulder muscle. It also permitted the British further opportunity to brush up their team play, in which they have been somewhat remiss.
The Americans, however, continued to rule favorites at odds of 2 to 1, thanks to what is regarded as their superior speed and defense.
